

The Mackie DB-100 Desktop Microphone Boom Arm is an accessory that anyone working with the spoken-word can employ at their desktop setup. It's a boom arm that attaches to your desk, thus removing any need for a bulky, intrusive mic stand in your home studio.

Sturdily constructed out of steel, the DB-100 clamps to any desk and can be adjusted to position the mic in the perfect place, whatever that means to you. A standard mounting thread will interface with nearly any microphone clip. Hook-and-loop straps are included for cable management.